This is a

Time for Industrial Peace

This morning's overnight news from the centers of industrial strife is encouraging.

In St. Louis, headquarters of the Missouri Pacific railroad, whose system-wide strike is laying a paralyzing hand on industry and commerce throughout all our section, negotiators for both labor and management have agreed to resume talks. The Missouri Pacific strike is now five days old, with a road shutdown is just one of those things that "simply shouldn't happen."

In Pittsburgh, United States Steel corporation, Jones & Laughlin and Republic Steel agreed among themselves to reopen talks with the CIO Steelworkers union—in the light of the report of the President's fact-finding commission, but without being bound by its terms. The fact-finders held against any wage increase, but urged company pensions for workers.

Only in the coal business is there a determined road-block to industrial peace. The Southern mine owners have retaliated against John L. Lewis' 3-day work week by refusing to make their scheduled payments to the United States Mine Workers Welfare Fund. Now Lewis is dallying with the notion of calling an all-out strike. One harsh word leads to another harsh action.

Meanwhile the public, which sits in eventual judgment on all industrial disputes, reminds itself that we live in an uncertain economic era—the era of potential deflation which nearly always follows wartime inflation. No man knows whether today's prices are firm, today's employment is secure, and today's business is wholesome—and so all of us are hopeful that relatively small issues can be settled by the quarreling factions before a worse trouble settles on the entire nation.

Whatever the issue in the great mills and mines, and on the railroads, we have much to be thankful for. The economic picture four years after the end of the war—and we'd like to keep it as good as it is today.

No Drinking at Grid Games Officers Warn

Chief of Police C. E. Baker and Sheriff Claude H. Sutton in a joint statement today said that the law prohibits the drinking of intoxicating beverages would be strictly enforced at all football games held in the City of Hope. Numerous complaints followed last week's game.

"We do not intend to allow a bunch of drunks to ruin the spirit of football in Hope," the officers said. "It doesn't matter who the person or persons may be that violates this law, if they are apprehended they will be arrested and brought into court. We know that we will have the support of a majority of the people of this area in our efforts to preserve good order and sportsmanship at all of our games and we ask that the cooperation of all towards that end."

Democrats Lose Strongholds in Pennsylvania

Johnstown, Pa., Sept. 14.—(AP)—

Impressive inroads by Democratic strongholds put the 26th Pennsylvania district congressional seat back in the Republican fold today.

Naval Veteran John P. Saylor, 44, who supplied the flag raised on two Jiro, recaptured the special election prize which his party lost in the 1948 Truman sweep.

And he did it without mentioning in his campaign the name of Democratic gold star mother Mrs. Robert L. Coffey Sr., who fought for the congressional seat vacated by the plane crash death of her son.

Mr. Truman gave his blessing to the 55-year-old Mrs. Coffey's candidacy. The western Pennsylvania vote provided the first test of the President's "fair deal" program.

The vote yesterday was in conjunction with statewide party primaries. Returns from 249 of 325 precincts gave:

Saylor, 45,492.
Coffey 33,060.

Intense interest in the off-year balloting brought out a big primary vote in the three-county agricultural, industrial and coal mining district.

Saylor surprisingly came out with a strong vote in normally Democratic Cambria (Johnstown), where he won 133 of 78 precincts. Saylor, 20,771; Coffey 23,568.

That was the back-breaker of Mrs. Coffey's bid.

As expected, GOP sentiment in the district's other two counties rolled up 2 to 1 margins for the Republicans.

Saylor grabbed even industrial Johnstown. With one precinct missing, the vote was Saylor 11,772; Coffey 10,790. Robert Coffey Jr., won the city last year 13,136 to 9,646. The city registration: Democrats 14,658; Republicans 14,348.

The district's eligible voters totaled 154,280 with the Republicans having a better than a 7,000 margin in the three counties.

The director campaigned on a promise to help repeal the Taft-Hartley act and complete backing of the Truman program. She had endorsement of both the AFL and CIO.

Saylor claimed the issue was "the American way of life, free enterprise and opportunity versus the regimented semi-police state in the socialistic welfare state philosophy."

Washington, Sept. 14.—(AP)—It's settled—ducks may be hunted in Arkansas, Tennessee, Louisiana and Mississippi from Nov. 18 through Dec. 27.

Arkansas and Tennessee had asked for those dates and Louisiana expressed agreement.

But Mississippi sportsmen contended the period does not coincide with the most favorable hunting conditions in the state.

The fish and wildlife service nevertheless felt the season should be the same in all states and picked the dates with the most support.

Washington, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The state tax commission has issued its first order for reappraisal of property in an Arkansas county.

The commission, following a public hearing in Mountain Home last week, ordered all property in Baxter county be reappraised. Citizens of the county asked that assessments be set at 20 per cent of valuation, a percentage endorsed by the commission.

Baxter county was the first to request the aid of the commission in its assessment problem.

Gen. McAuliffe Slated for Higher Post

Washington, Sept. 14.—(AP)—

Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, who said "nuts" to a German demand for surrender at Bastogne, was tapped today to be chief of the army chemical corps.

President Truman sent the nomination of the 51-year-old officer to the senate.

If the senate approves, McAuliffe will succeed Maj. Gen. Alden H. Waitt who was suspended from the job last July after his name cropped up in the senate's "five percent" investigation. Waitt, 55, was restored to active duty last week but immediately retired.

Mr. Truman also sent to the senate the nomination of Stanton Griffiths to be ambassador to Argentina.

APL Board Has Two New Directors

Little Rock, Sept. 14.—(AP)—

Two new members were named to the board of directors of the Arkansas Power and Light company and all of the utilities officers were re-elected yesterday.

New board members, chosen at a stockholders' meeting here, are W. W. Campbell, president of the National Bank of Eastern Arkansas at Forrest City, and W. C. Blewster, president of the First National bank of Magnolia.

They succeed Laurin Davis, Waldo, deceased, and Joe Hardin, Grady, resigned.

All other board members were re-elected.

Officers re-elected by the board are: C. H. Moses, Little Rock, president and board chairman; H. R. Ritten, Little Rock, and H. F. Minnis, Pine Bluff, vice presidents; L. E. Leas, Pine Bluff, secretary; J. L. Bodie, Pine Bluff, treasurer, and W. M. Harrell, Pine Bluff, assistant treasurer.

The directors declared a quarterly dividend of $1.75 on $7 preferred stock and $1.50 on common.

Moses told the stockholders that industrial progress of Arkansas was shown by the near tripling of electric power consumption since 1941 and predicted that the state will continue its "almost meteoric industrial spurt for many years to come."

The officers and directors of Middle South Utilities, Inc., representing Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi power holdings valued at $100,000,000 will arrive here tonight for a two-day tour of AP & L powerhouses. They will be guests of Moses.

Grigg Applies for Patent on New Invention

Guy M. Grigg of Hope has invented and applied for a patent on an improvement to outboard motors and will begin the manufacturing and sale of the device in the near future.

Grigg said, in addition, the Stabilizer is known as a "Thriving Stabilizer" for outboard motors and will represent a new industry for Hope.

A "come-shaped" gadget which easily slips on over the propeller and attaches to the frame of the outboard motor, Grigg said, is designed to greatly improve the efficiency and pleasure of the use of an outboard motor.

The invention almost completely eliminates the usual waves caused by the prop wash of the motor when operated at high speed. Mr. Grigg said, in addition, the Stabilizer is said to permit a boat to be operated at a slow rate of speed as to enable fishing in comfort without cutting off the power. It also serves as a rudder for the near future.

Lewis Hints Strike Unless Welfare Fund Paid; Steel Negotiations to Resume

Bluefield, W. Va., Sept. 14.—(AP)—

Southern coal operators were faced today with John L. Lewis' pay-up-or-else demand for miners welfare fund royalties.

Presumably Lewis wants a definite reply by the time the operators and United Mine Workers representatives sit down here late today for another round of contract talks.

The UMW chief virtually threatened to call a strike against the southern owners who have been withholding the 20-cent-per-ton welfare payments on all coal dug.

"Will you or will you not remit?" he wanted to know.

Lewis said a continuation of the "default" may lead to "reactions" deterrent to the constructive progress of the industry. To observers, that meant a strike threat.

Southern operators have met here periodically since May to discuss a new contract with Lewis' mine workers. Northern and western operators started meeting with him in June. The numerous sessions have all ended with no decision.

June 30, although the north-western soft coal contracts expired, none contended they had a contract to August 14 because Lewis did not give them notice on negotiations until June 14.

Lewis has not made known his new contract demands in detail.

Meanwhile, miners east of the Mississippi have been working three days a week. This was a sharp departure from the former "no contract, no work" policy of the union.

The old contract called for the welfare fund payments.

Lewis expected all operators to continue their payments while contract negotiations were in progress.

However, an undisclosed number of southern operators came up with a policy of their own—"no contract, no welfare payments."

Lewis indicated in Washington that he will not attend today's session here but will leave the bargaining to a team headed by John O'Grady, UMW secretary-treasurer.

Northern and western operators representing about 300,000,000 tons of annual soft coal production will resume contract talks with the union tomorrow at White Sulphur Springs.

Comparatively few, if any, in that group have withheld the royalty payments.

Red Satellites to Be Charged Before UN

Washington, Sept. 14.—(AP)—

Secretary of State Acheson announced today that Soviet-dominated Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania will be charged in the United Nations general assembly with violations of human rights.

The secretary emphatically renewed at his news conference the long-standing British-American charges of "calous disregard" for or not violations in the peace treaties with the Iron Curtain nations.

He said the three Soviet satellites have just turned down a proposal by the United States that they name commissions, as provided in the peace treaties, to take up the dispute over charges that they have repeatedly violated the agreements. These call for fair trials and various personal freedoms.

Bulgaria, Hungary, and Romania, Acheson said in a statement which he repeated to insist that they have not violated the human rights clauses of the treaties but they

Strike Result of 15-Year Stockpile

By NORMAN WALKER
(For James Marlow)

Washington, Sept. 14 — (AP) — For 15 years a sore spot has been festering in labor relations on the railroad. It's getting worse all the time.

It's the main reason for the present strike on the big Missouri Pacific railroad. It's ranking labor dealings on practically every other railroad in the country.

What's it all about? Not wages, nor hours, nor the usual reasons for a strike. It's the strike of strikes in other industries.

The railroad fuss is simply this: A growing batch of arguments between the operating unions and rail managers over the terms of their contracts.

The unions say some contract clauses mean one thing. The managers say it means another. These grievances pile up, unsettled, until one day there is a strike threat.

This has been going on, and getting worse, ever since 1934. Then congress, as asked by the railroad and rail unions, set up an agency called the national railroad adjustment board. It has panels composed of equal numbers of union and management men, supposed to settle such grievances.

There are four panels, all based at Chicago. All have been getting along about even. But the panel dealing with grievances brought up by operating employees such as engineers, firemen, trainmen, conductors.

Things went bad with the operating workers' panel from the start. Because labor contracts covering these workers are so complex, it now has a backlog of more than 3,000 grievances. Officials estimate it will take four or five years to settle them. This doesn't leave much room for new ones.

So the unions representing the engineers and other operating employees have just about put a boycott on the adjustment board. They won't take their cases there any more.

A few months ago railroad management and the unions got together to try to clear a way through this blockade. They agreed to set up two more panels to work along with the over-burdened one. The idea was to make prompt settlement of grievances possible.

A good idea — but congress hasn't appropriated the money yet to put the new panels into operation.

The unsettled disputes are rattling around until the unions get tired of waiting and call a strike. A threatened stop in rail service makes a problem for the national adjustment board. This is a separate agency, charged with helping the carriers and their unions write new contracts without strikes.

These threatened strikes have often caused the White House to name special fact-finding boards to look into the trouble and attempt to avoid a strike. Usually these boards have all recommendations of the same thing: Take the grievances to the adjustment board because that's its job.

But as we've seen, the adjustment board is bogged down. The unions are sore about it, and the railroads are facing strikes which they feel are unjustified and unnecessary.

A number of cases railroads have proposed letting an outsider come in to make a final ruling of pending grievances. That's arbitration.

But the unions don't want that. They say the case is too complicated for a layman — that the railroad men themselves have to work them out, either through the adjustment board once it gets working right, or in collective bargaining.

Barkley Really Irked About 'Love Life'

Washington, Sept. 13 — (AP) — Vice President Barkley is getting a little irked at all the questions about his personal life.

It isn't like the V. P. He has been married to his wife, Mary, for 35 years and usually has managed to come up with a smile.

This time, however, there's a lady involved. The lady is Mrs. Carlton F. Hadley, attractive St. Louis widow and mother of two daughters. Spotted day she may elect to become Mrs. Barkley. Then, again, she may not.

All this has caused a lot of speculation. It gets Barkley out of bed at midnight now and then to deny a rumor that he is engaged, is about to become engaged or is about to marry Mrs. Hadley.

It keeps reporters meeting the plane every time he goes somewhere out of Washington.

Now the "Veep," as he calls himself, is a fun loving fellow. He always quick with a joke. He even takes one on himself.

He also is a patient man, as he proved through long years of congressional battles.

But both his sense of humor and his patience with reporters, who are just about his favorite people, are wearing a little thin.

So far as his friendship with the lady is concerned, the Veep would like to become just an anonymous citizen.

He doesn't want his attentions to the lady to become an embarrassment to her through frequent denials that they are going to get married.

So far as his best friends know, Barkley hasn't popped the question. That doesn't mean that he won. And like every other swain, he isn't at all sure that the lady would say if he did.

He could, of course, avoid the reporters and their questions if he kept calling on Mrs. Hadley.

The odds look like a hundred to one against it.

Agreement Reached Between East, West Germany

Berlin, Sept. 13 — (AP) — East and west Berlin occupation authorities have reached an agreement — the first in more than a year — on steps to provide a more normal life in the old German capital. Their action followed orders from the recent foreign ministers conference in Paris.

They agreed to accept letters bearing each others stamps, and to call in German technicians from both east and west Berlin to put the city's gas, light, telephone and other services in order.

"It was a cordial four-hour session," said Col. William T. Bohack, deputy U. S. commandant. "Everyone seemed honestly to try to reach agreement to return Berlin to normal."

The meeting was the first four power session attended by Maj. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, new U. S. commandant in Berlin.

Hungary Says Tito Planned Invasion

Belgrade, Yugoslav, Sept. 14 — (UP) — Marshal Tito was accused today of planning to invade Romania and help overthrow the Moscow-dominated Hungarian government.

The Romanian newspaper Scanteia, which made the charges, said the plot was supported by the United States in an effort to set the Soviet satellites at war with Russia under Tito's command.

A top Yugoslav official countered with charges that recent Russian troop movements on Yugoslavia's northern frontier were a "plot with arms" to frighten American aid away from Yugoslavia and prevent other satellite states from following Tito's course.

In another Yugoslav blast at Russia, Yugoslav Deputy Foreign Minister Ales. Bebler said that Russia was demanding "unity at any cost" among the Soviet satellites because of the Kremlin's fear of atomic war.

The newspaper Scanteia's charges of an invasion plot against Marshal Tito said "American imperialists" had actively aided the plan by infiltrating spies into the working class movement in Romania.

Scanteia is the official Workers (Communist) party newspaper in Bucharest. The paper's charges were broadcast by Agencepress, the Romanian press agency.

Scanteia said the Yugoslav plans for assistance in establishing an anti-Moscow Hungarian government headed by former Hungarian Foreign Minister Laszlo Rajk.

Rajk and seven other top communist leaders in Hungary were arrested last June on charges of espionage, treason and attempts to overthrow the Hungarian government. Their trial starts Friday in Budapest.

Scanteia intimated that the alleged Yugoslav plot against her Moscow-dominated neighbors had been foiled by the arrest of Rajk.

Scanteia said Rajk was fully informed of the plot by Yugoslav Minister of the Interior Alexander Rankovic.

Talks Resume on Reynolds Strike

Little Rock, Sept. 14 — (UP) — Federal conciliators gathered around a conference table with union and company officials again here today to discuss the stubborn strike which has idled 1,800 Reynolds Metals company workers in Arkansas for the past six weeks.

Negotiations which were broken off Aug. 2 were resumed yesterday and the talks continued until late last night. There were no indications as to the progress being made.

If the initial negotiating talks last July are any bellweather, the resumption of talks may go on for several days before the participants even get down to the main ones of contention.

Today's meeting began at 9 a. m. and another all-day session was in prospect.

The union, during the early stages of yesterday's gathering, submitted a proposal to the company which was studied by representatives of the firm before the night meeting began. The proposal apparently was clarified during the night session.

District Sub-director Charles E. Smith for the United Steelworkers said the proposal "simply is a re-assembly of matters which already have been agreed to."

He said the union had taken these agreements, lumped them together and included them in the proposal.

Smith would not elaborate on whether or not any union recommendation was made on unsettled issues.

Neither Smith nor company spokesmen would comment on whether the recent report of President Truman's fact-finding board in the steel industry would influence the present negotiations. The board recommended no wage hikes but suggested a ten-cent hourly package increase covering insurance and pensions.

Smith was not well enough informed of the board's findings to comment. He pointed out, however, that Reynolds officials have declined in the past to go along with any pension plan.

He also contended that the original breakdown talks came about, not because of economic factors, but over the union-company contract concerning working conditions, seniority and other similar matters.

In 1879, the Navy football team wore tightly-laced canvas jackets, supposedly the first grid uniforms.

It Is a Fact That Defiance of Tito Is Bringing Many Disorders in Other Areas

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Czechoslovakia's official communist newspaper charges Marshal Tito, Yugoslavia's Red dictator, with plotting to entice Russia's eastern European satellites into an anti-Soviet alliance.

Whether this be true, the fact remains that Tito's defiance of Moscow's domination is being followed by complications and disturbances among other satellites. The Czechoslovak and Hungarian communist governments claim to have uncovered plans for actual rebellion by force. The ferment also has shown itself elsewhere.

Well, suppose the defiance among the satellites is growing — as the evidence indicates — what is its real significance? How would the democratic world be affected if Tito did succeed in forming an anti-Russian bloc? Could the western nations work satisfactorily with such a Tito bloc?

In seeking an answer to these vital questions we must note first that Moscow and Yugoslavia are working under two different types of communism.

The Russian brand is Bolshevism, which calls for world revolution in order to bring all nations into the Soviet bloc under direction of Moscow. This creed, which we were acquainted with before Bolshevism was born. The Tito communism stands for absolute nationalism of the state and the retention of sovereignty.

Tito's nationalism is opposed to the Russian brand of communism. With those definitions before us, which brand of communism would the democracies find it easier to get along with? The answer to that isn't difficult, always assuming that Tito would stick to the tenets which he now advocates. One naturally would choose the Tito communism as the lesser of two evils because it professes to honor the sanctity of national sovereignty.

Of course, any form of communism is totalitarian and subjects the individual to regimentation. However, reports on the Yugoslav set-up indicate that it is more liberal to the individual than is Bolshevism.

We know that democracy and Bolshevism can't work side by side peacefully because that has been amply demonstrated. Now about democracy and Tito-communism?

The answer to that, it seems to me, must be that nations having different political faiths can work together — so long as they make no effort to interfere with one another.

So on the basis of Tito's attitude of non-interference, the democracies could work with him, or with a bloc of nations holding the same beliefs. However, it would have to be complete non-interference.

That being the case the western powers naturally will watch developments in eastern Europe with tense interest. If Tito is indeed out to establish an anti-Soviet bloc among the Russian satellites, we may be witnessing the break midnight today that he had been plotting to bring the end of the cold war and put a crimp in the Bolshevik world revolution.

Paragould Taxi Driver Kidnaped and Robbed

Jonesboro, Sept. 14 — (AP) — John Adams, Paragould taxi driver, reported to police here shortly after midnight today that he had been kidnaped at gunpoint, bound and robbed of $31 by two men.

Adams said he picked up two fares in Paragould who wanted to go to a night club near Arbyrd, Ark. Before reaching the Missouri town, one of the men put a gun to the driver's ribs and ordered him to drive south toward Leachville, Ark., he reported.

The two men tore off his shirt, bound his hands behind him, took his money and drove to Jonesboro. Adams alleged. The two men left him bound in the back seat of the cab in the railroad yards here. He managed to free himself and reported the happenings to Jonesboro police.

A widespread search is in progress.

Railway Walkout May Delay Flood Work

Little Rock, Sept. 14 — (AP) — "Indefinite postponement" of emergency levee repair work in Jefferson county due to the Missouri Pacific railway strike was announced today.

The U. S. engineers' district office in Little Rock said opening of bids for the emergency work — which was set for Friday, Sept. 16 — has been called off indefinitely.

The engineers' office said inability of contractors to obtain the necessary supplies to complete the work necessitated the postponement.

Reports Attempt Made on Life of Gen. Chiang

Hong Kong, Sept. 14 — (UP) — The newspaper China Mail reported today without confirmation that an attempt against the life of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek had been made during the Chungking field Sept. 2.

The newspaper quoted "reliable sources."

It said the would-be assassins tossed a grenade at the generalissimo, who was not hurt, and that the nationalist leader's bodyguards killed 18 persons who were believed to have participated in the plot.

Penitentiary Is Going to Have to Pinch Pennies

Little Rock, Sept. 14 — (AP) — Arkansas penitentiary is going to have to pinch pennies.

State Comptroller Lee Roy Beasley reported yesterday that an audit of the institution's finances showed them to be in a precarious position, due largely to expenditure of $550,388 in a building program during the past two years.

He told the state parole board, however, that careful spending until next June 30 will keep the situation from being particularly alarming.

U. S., Britain Say Jap Peace Plan Necessary

Washington, Sept. 14 — (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson said today he and British Foreign Minister Bevin are agreed that the need for a Japanese peace treaty is urgent.

Acheson indicated to a news conference that he still hopes Russia will cooperate in making the treaty.

The secretary of state met with reporters just before going into his second session of political talks with Bevin.

The first session was held yesterday and concerned the Pacific area. It produced a joint statement indicating that British and American anti-communist policies would develop along largely parallel lines.

Acheson said that their review today would be concerned with European questions, particularly those involving Germany and Austria.

He also said in response to inquiries that he expects to go to New York next Sunday or Monday to participate in the opening of the United Nations general assembly. He will address the assembly.

Indications are that Bevin and Acheson were also in general agreement on several other points reportedly touched upon in their first session of political talks here yesterday. These points included:

1. The Western powers should move slowly and cautiously on the question of recognition of a Chinese communist government if and when such a game is established.

2. Nationalism is the most powerful force working against the spread of communism into other Asiatic countries; it should be encouraged by the western nations both for that reason and because it is in line with their established policies.

3. Western capital should be put to work on a wider scale than at present to raise the living standard of non-communist Asiatic peoples.

On one point — trade with the Chinese communists — diplomats speculated there might develop a divergence of British and American moves in the next few months.

American officials are reported to feel that their experience in dealing with communist China offers little basis for hope of doing business with the communists, so that this country in general should follow a policy of hands off.

Britain, however, has a much greater commercial stake than the United States in China and is interested in protecting it to the fullest extent possible. Diplomatic officials say they would not be surprised if the British undertook to develop a working arrangement for trade with communist China.

Congress May Adjourn in October

Washington, Sept. 14 — (AP) — A list of measures adjournment of congress was predicted today by Sen. Wherry of Nebraska, the Republican floor leader.

Barring the raising of new issues until Sept. 21, has completed most major legislation and seems willing to call at a legislative day as soon as the senate can catch up.

Wherry told a reporter that so far as he is concerned the Republicans are willing to help end the session as quickly as possible. He predicted it would be shortly before November 1.

Sen. Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader, has been blaming the Republicans for delaying important bills.

After a Democratic policy meeting yesterday, Lucas outlined a list of measures on which he said action will be sought before congress quits.

The list put the administration's $1,314,000,000 foreign arms bill up next, after the senate completes action on the pending house-approved reciprocal trade agreements measure.

"There's not a thing on Lucas' list that couldn't go over until next January," Wherry said. "But we are willing to cooperate to expedite action on the measures he has listed."

Lucas got rid for the time being of a threatened filibuster when the policy group agreed to delay action until January on a house-approved bill to repeal the taxes on oleomargarine. But state senators have threatened to talk a long time about that measure.

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark), one of the bill's sponsors, said his disapproval of the measure won't be fought out in this session; it is offset by the fact that for the first time it has been given definite priority in the next session.

"The pressure of legislation will be maintained," he said.

Indications are that Bevin and Acheson were also in general agreement on several other points reportedly touched upon in their first session of political talks here yesterday. These points included:

1. The Western powers should move slowly and cautiously on the question of recognition of a Chinese communist government if and when such a game is established.

2. Nationalism is the most powerful force working against the spread of communism into other Asiatic countries; it should be encouraged by the western nations both for that reason and because it is in line with their established policies.

3. Western capital should be put to work on a wider scale than at present to raise the living standard of non-communist Asiatic peoples.

Britain, however, has a much greater commercial stake than the United States in China and is interested in protecting it to the fullest extent possible. Diplomatic officials say they would not be surprised if the British undertook to develop a working arrangement for trade with communist China.

Says Communism Only a Political Packet

Chicago, Sept. 14 — (AP) — Communism was termed a "political racket" today by Elizabeth T. Bentley, wartime courier for a Red spy ring in Washington.

Miss Bentley, 41, who has become a teacher at Muddelton college, a Catholic women's school here, said her concern over social injustices led her to join the Communist party in 1935.

She was active in the party for 10 years, she said, and became so disillusioned that in 1945 she went to the FBI and related her part in the spy ring — obtaining secret information from government employees.

not be so great at the beginning of a session as it is now and the opportunities for delaying the bill by its opponents will be less," he said in a statement.

Fulbright said he doesn't think there will be more than 30 votes cast against the tax repeal.

Lucas said that after the arms bill is acted upon, the senate will take up five measures to increase pay and benefits of federal employees, including military personnel. Included among these is a bill to boost the pay of cabinet officers from $15,000 up to $25,000 a year.

He said a compromise farm price support bill drafted by Senator Anderson (D-NM), will be brought up.

He also will call up, he said, a motion to take away from the senate judiciary committee and place before the senate itself a house-approved bill to increase the number of displaced Europeans who can be admitted to this country.

workers and passing it on to Soviet agents.

Miss Bentley testified at a congressional investigation of communist spy activities last year.

"I finally realized that communism is just a political racket like any other, only worse," she said. "I got into communism because I always was one of those people who are upset over social injustice. But the communists don't do anything about social injustices; they just use them."

Miss Bentley said she now believes that "acting like a good Christian is the answer to social injustice."

She was converted to the Catholic faith last November.

PIN-WORMS CAN YOU! STRIKE YOU!

Don't make the mistake of believing that your family is safe from Pin-Worms—that these nasty pests strike only "careless" homes. Medical experts report that one out of every three persons examined—adults and children alike—was a victim of these ugly creatures that live and grow inside the human body. And this common condition spreads rapidly... often through entire families.

Watch for the warning signs of Pin-Worms in your family—especially the maddening rectal itch. Then get Jayne's P-W Vermifuge. P-W contains a special, medically-approved ingredient that attacks Pin-Worms in the intestines and removes them from the body.

Steps to the Moon

By Millman-Carl, Inc. Distributed by NEA SERVICE, INC.

Christmas had come and gone and Gaynel had had no word from Fritz. "Take me or leave me," he had said. And, apparently, had taken himself completely out of her life.

But Barry had been planning a house party at his winter lodge near Grayling. He insisted it would not be complete unless Gaynel were there.

"I accept with alacrity," Gaynel responded. "Which should prove how much it is appreciated, Barry dear. And, by the way, I've changed my mind about not wanting to meet Madeline Day. I wish you'd invite her for Denny over the week-end."

Gaynel wanted to know this woman who had brought about such a miraculous change in her young brother. Not only was he making good at his job, but last month he had paid Gaynel back $20 of what he owed her and had promised—a bit shamefacedly—that he meant to do even better from now on.

"I want to contribute a little something," Denny said. "May only be a drop in the bucket, for awhile. But nobody's going to call me a sponger—and get away with it."

So Fritz's remarks, as well as Mrs. Day's influence, had sunk into Denny's conscience. Barry's prediction that The Lodge was just what Gaynel needed proved to be right. The crisp air had whipped the color back into her cheeks and restored her appetite to a scandalous degree.

Denny was to come up for the week-end and bring some friends along. Meantime Gaynel was glad to have a chance to meet Madeline Day, whom she found to be everything that Barry and Denny had said she was.

Mrs. Day had that "certain something" that Barry had called glamour. She had more than that. Something that went much deeper. Curled before the big fireplace in the living room, Gaynel said, "You know, I have a confession to make. I didn't think I was going to like you, Madeline. But I do."

Madeline smiled. "That more than makes up for your confession. I can say the same thing in return. Sincerely, only—I knew I'd couldn't help liking Denny's sister."

DOROTHY DIX

Repentant Husband

Dear Miss Dix: A short time ago I lost a wonderful wife. She died at the birth of a baby girl, leaving me with her and a 3-year-old son. Before the baby arrived I neglected her and the babies left her alone night after night. She tried to make things as pleasant as possible for me the few times I did stay at home. Now that she is gone I have only a housekeeper to take care of us.

I can see only too plainly the difference in my home and children. My wife always had things neat and clean and hot and tempting meals for me; whereas my housekeeper is sloppy and slovenly and miserably poor and the babies are not getting the care they need and my little boy cries daily for his mother. I am quite sure that my wife grived herself to death of grief and sorrow and that I have the last four years of my life over. Why do we not appreciate things until it is too late?

A REPENTANT HUSBAND
Answer: Because we are stupid and selfish and take our blessings for granted and think they are not half what we deserve. Gratitude and appreciation are the greatest of all the virtues and that is why many a woman lets her husband work himself to death to support her in idleness and luxury without so much as giving him a casual "thank you." That is why a husband lets his wife make her self a doormat for him to trample on without even perceiving that she is doing it.

The woman sees nothing fine and heroic and chivalrous in her husband toiling like a galley slave to give her a fine house and a car and good clothes. Nothing noble and self-sacrificing in his giving her the vacations and travel and going to winter and summer resorts that he never takes himself.

On the contrary, she more of them is complaining and discontented because she cannot live as some richer woman does. A man sees nothing beautiful and unselfish in his wife spending her days cooking and cleaning and scrubbing to make him comfortable. Nothing to be grateful for in her going shabby that he may have the best clothes and cut the figure in the world. Nothing wonderful in her being willing to stay in with fretful babies while he steps out at night. On the contrary he probably complains of his food and looks her for not pinching the pennies harder and thinks that a woman's place is in the home and she should never want any amusement outside of it.

Then death comes and the woman gets some realization of what the love has been that has kept her safe and warm through the years, some vision of how often a tired man must have driven himself on to give her another seawall. And the man sees for the first time the devotion that offered itself up on the altar of his comfort, and in his own loneliness in his empty house, he visions the many dreary evenings he left her to spend alone.

The tears that many a widow and widower weep over a coffin are wrung from their tortured hearts.

Yes, that was the "certain something" that Madeline had: an independence.

"Is this a Ladies' Maid Meeting?" Barry asked, coming in with a bowl of punch.

"We were having a meeting," Madeline said, "of the Mutual Admiration Society. You are the only member of your sex of whom we might make an exception. Shall we pledge him, Gaynel?"

Gaynel said the vote was unanimous. But Madeline's tone had aroused her attention. She had spoken lightly, but there was an undercurrent, like the depth of Madeline's personality beneath the glamorous surface.

She's in love with Barry! Gaynel thought, amazed. He was the one man for whom that hard-won independence might be surrendered. Hadn't Madeline even said that she had thought she would never fall in love again, but that now she was not so certain? It was not amazing, really. Madeline and Barry would be eminently suited in every way.

Except that Barry took it for granted he wanted to marry Gaynel.

On Saturday came the special train that brings its hilarious load of passengers from Detroit. The ice rink was crowded with skaters, the eating places and shelters packed.

It looked like a gay carnival. It was so festive and gay that it seemed almost unreal. So that Gaynel, skating with Barry, toward the end of the afternoon, was not as taken back with the unreality of suddenly coming face to face with Bessie Carter and Fritz.

Her heart did a somersault, naturally, but she was surprised to find how cool and collected her voice sounded, as they all exchanged greetings.

Bessie, with her gilt freckles, looked very smart in her green skating costume, short legs suited, and emphasized, her streamlined figure. She looked very sure of herself and she clung onto Fritz's arm in a way that suggested not only support, but possession.

concessions as well as their benevolent hearts, and are bitter with self-reproach.

It is notable that second husbands and second wives are almost invariably treated better than first ones are, and into this consideration and understanding and appreciation goes a lot of atonement to those who are beyond the reach of repentance.

DOROTHY DIX
Dear Miss Dix: How is the best way to start a conversation with a boy and hold his attention?

RUBY AND JEANETTE
Answer: Ask him questions about the things he is interested in, if you know what they are. If he is a stranger you have never met before, dial around the topics until you find some theme song to which he responds. Politics, what's in the news, new books, the last movie, a popular play, sports, automobiles, travel, are all likely subjects. If he answers briefly, try another on him.

Most boys have a very limited range of interest. Themselves, whatever sport they like best, their work and their dates are about the only things they can talk about, but once you get them started on their favorite topic of what "I said" and "he said" and what "I did" and "didn't do," they are garrulous.

But never talk to a boy about yourself. That bores him stiff.

Louisiana Man Crushed to Death at Texarkana

Texarkana, Tex., Sept. 13 — (UP) — Melvin G. Reynolds, 24, of Colfax, La., was crushed to death here today by an earth-moving machine he was directing into position.

The accident occurred at the Texarkana dam site, five miles south of here. Reynolds, a construction employee, was trapped when the earth-mover backed up and pinned him against another.

Eleven times Southeast Conference teams played in the Rose Bowl, with Alabama furnishing six of the teams.

Federal Tax Hard on Most Slot Machines

Washington, Sept. 12 — (AP) — Law officers looking for illegal slot machines got an assist from the federal government today.

The internal revenue bureau published a list of special tax collections which included taxes on slot machines—some of which probably are operated in violation of local laws. There is no federal law against the machines.

These lists are available to interested citizens as well as law enforcement officers. They contain the name and address of the operator of each coin operated gaming or amusement device that in some communities the operation of such devices are illegal.

Illinois has the largest number of machines on the U. S. list—6,961.

Notre Dame football coach Frank Leahy says Johnny Lujack is the finest all-around player he ever coached.

Seeks Probe of Costello's Activities

New Orleans, Sept. 13 — (UP) — Mayor DeLesseps S. Morrison, acting as head of the powerful Municipal association, today called upon the government to investigate Frank Costello and reports that he plans to "move in" on the governments of key U. S. cities.

"It is national and international in scope," Morrison said of the syndicate Costello reportedly directs from New York. "It is a matter of record that operations of the syndicate include gambling houses, slot machines and allied activities in six or eight states from coast to coast and from the Great lakes to the Gulf of Mexico."

"There is a great deal more which is suspected but cannot at this time be proved. Recently, Costello was quoted locally as saying he would put up half the funds to defeat our administration in New Orleans if the (Gov. Earl) Long-old regulars would raise the other half."

Morrison said there was long discussion of the syndicate's growing efforts "to extend its power and influence into the governments of key cities at the A. M. A. convention in Chicago last week. The A. M. A. represents 9,500 U. S. cities and towns."

He said it looked as if the syndicate created the entire Mickey Cohen incident to embarrass Mayor Fletcher Bowron, he said. "They are now attempting to capitalize on this situation to the detriment of the people of that city."

Bus Driver Faces Murder Charge Following Fight

Jonesboro, Sept. 12 — (P) — William Morris Hannan, 33, Jonesboro bus driver, was charged with first degree murder today after the death last night of J. B. Turner, 34, Trumann oil truck driver.

The two men engaged in a fist fight two miles west of here last night, according to officers. Turner died at the scene of the altercation. Coroner W. C. Craig said death resulted from the fight but gave no definite cause of death. No autopsy was performed.

Deputy Prosecuting Attorney charged direct to circuit court. Attorney Jim McDaniel, representing Hannan, has asked circuit Judge Charles Light for a habeas corpus hearing for his client this afternoon.

Reverse Conviction of 21 Persons Hanged 257 Years Ago

Boston, Sept. 13 — (P) — The Massachusetts legislature has been asked to reverse the convictions of 21 persons hanged 257 years ago. The action would absolve 16 women and five men accused of witchcraft in Salem in 1692. They were hanged between June and September of that year.

Rep. Daniel Rudstein (D-Boston) filed the resolve yesterday. He was not available for comment.

Third Escaped Convict Is Apprehended

Little Rock, Sept. 14 — (UP) — The third man who escaped from the criminal ward of the state hospital here Aug. 17 has been accounted for. State police said that the man, 34-year-old Herman Horton, has been arrested at Louisville, Ky.

A second man in the escape, Hubert Lee Craig, 29, was arrested in Newport shortly after fleeing from the hospital while the third, 26-year-old Gile Ray Doshier, suffered fatal injuries in the attempt. Doshier broke his leg in jumping from a second story roof at the hospital and later died at the institution.

Horton, who was arrested for involuntary manslaughter in Louisville, had been found without psychosis shortly before his escape and was awaiting return to Sebastian county to face burglary and grand larceny charges.

Around the Arkansas Sports Loop

By CAR LBEILL

Little Rock, Sept. 14 — (P) — Just a few lines to say: The Arkansas football season is in full swing. The University of Arkansas has to play football, probably wonders how it would feel to go through a season without having a key performer on the injury list.

Year before last Aubrey Fowler, whose punting had been big factor in the Razorbacks' 1946 Southwest conference title conquest, rode the bench most of the season with broken ribs.

Last fall guard Theron Roberts, the team's captain, and first string end Jim Cox, had to sit out the full campaign with bum legs. The two leading backs, Clyde Scott and Leon Campbell, were out of action off and on all season.

And now three regulars are ailing — Campbell, center John Ferguson and tackle Fred Williams. Barney certainly must envy Matty Bell whose all-American Doak Walker hasn't missed a game because of hurts in three seasons — and who has won two straight championships.

And speaking of injured men, the first to turn up in the Razorback training camp this month was, fact all people, Trainer Sammy Lankford. He has a back ailment.

Whites and Negroes competed together in a major athletic contest in Arkansas for the first time last Saturday night in the Los Angeles Ram-Philadelphia Eagle pro football game at War Memorial stadium. . . . More mixed competition is expected in the softball World Series in Little Rock this week. The Toronto, Canada, and New York teams are reported to have crack Negro pitchers.

Murray Placed on Spot by Decision

By CHARLES H. HERROLD
Washington, Sept. 13 — (UP) — CIO President Philip Murray's abandonment of the drive for a fourth-round election was a death blow to the CIO's 1949 efforts for a pay raise and put him on a spot today with CIO left-wing unions.

Murray urged the United Steelworkers to accept the recommendations of President Truman's fact finding board just about the time the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers convention in Chicago voted to call on him to reject the recommendations and renew the wage drive.

His action is expected to kill off the general wage increase demand by CIO unions in the big mass industries such as auto, electrical manufacturing, rubber, shipbuilding, longshoremen, telephones, and glass. The CIO's big unions in men's clothing and textile industries called off their campaign for a 1949 wage increase some months ago.

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said that "the President is naturally highly gratified by developments and very much pleased about the way things have developed up to now."

President John Clark of the Smelter Workers union ridiculed the steel board's proposal as "a puny, piddling pension and welfare program."

Grant Oakes, president of the left-wing United Farm Equipment Workers union (CIO) said the steel workers accepted a settlement formula that is "inadequate."

Labor sources said these reactions may presage a series of attacks on Murray by other left-wing unions prior to the CIO's national convention in Cleveland on Oct. 31. The United Electrical Workers, biggest of the CIO leftist organizations, will open its convention on Monday in Cleveland, and it is expected to join in the general criticism of Murray's policies.

U. S. to Make It Easy for the British

By SAM DAWSON

New York, Sept. 13 — (P) — American industrialists, exporters and farmers are going to be asked to practice a little austerity of their own. Uncle Sam is going to step aside a little in the world's great trading market. He is deliberately making room for John Bull.

The British are to have it a little easier in selling their goods in competition with ours. They are going to buy less of ours. And we are going to buy more of theirs.

This deliberate step — which will probably mean a further cut in our declining export total of industrial products and of grain and oil — is being taken to help the British through their current dollar crisis. It is hoped that these concessions will put the British on their feet without any direct cash handout at this time. They will, of course, continue to receive Marshall dollar aid and doubtless some more loans from the World Bank and U. S. Export-Import Bank.

The aim is political as well as philanthropic. It is part of the cold war. It is also, perhaps, good business for us in the long-run — certainly a British collapse would not be good business for the world.

But here are the things proposed in the accord at Washington which will affect the pocketbooks of American businessmen, farmers, and perhaps the consumer:

1. Britain can spend more of her Marshall dollars elsewhere than here. Perhaps she will spend up to $325 million for Canadian wheat, for one example.

2. Britain probably will buy less oil from American-owned companies and sell more of her own Eastern oil output in markets once ours.

3. American shipping companies

'12 Crewmen Parachute to Safety

San Jose, Calif., Sept. 13 — (P) — Their B-29 swept by flames, 12 air force men parachuted to safety yesterday, seconds before the huge Superfortress crashed and burned.

The plane was on a routine flight from Fairfield-Suisun air force base. It crashed, empty, into a hilltop 15 miles northeast of San Jose.

Lt. Melburn J. Jones, 26, Chicago, co-pilot, suffered a minor back injury. He was the only casualty.

When the plane hit, one report said, it bounced 400 feet in the air and exploded. Other reports said the big ship seemed to explode just before impact.

Burning wreckage was spread over an area of about two square miles. It started fires which blackened several acres of brush and trees.

The parachutists, showing up at various ranchers' homes throughout the region, were rounded up and returned to Fairfield-Suisun.

It was the first parachute jump for all hands.

May lose trade. At present half of Marshall plan shipments must go in U. S. ships. Washington agrees to reconsider this.

4. Americans may pay more for rubber. Our present law requires that manufacturers use 200,000 tons a year of synthetic rubber, now selling at 18 1/2 cents a pound.

This has forced British natural rubber down to 18 cents. Now Washington agrees to lower these requirements. Tire makers are expected to buy more natural rubber from Britain, who is in a position to push up the price. Also, we agree to consider buying British rubber for our strategic stockpile, helping thereby to take supplies off the market.

Tells Dollar Short Nations to Devalue

Washington, Sept. 13 — (P) — The International Monetary fund today advised dollar-short countries to devalue their currencies, if need be, to boost their dollar-earning exports.

Without singling out the British pound but with Britain's dollar crisis obviously in mind, the report was laid before the opening session of the fourth annual meeting of the boards of government of the multi-billion dollar fund and World Bank.

Shortly thereafter, the financial leaders of the 48 member nations were to hear an off-the-cuff address by President Truman.

It may be better for a country to change an "unsuitable" exchange rate than to clamp on restrictions which "endanger its well-being and efficiency," said the report of the fund's executive directors.

The impact was the greater because a cabinet level British-U. S. Canadian conference ended yesterday with agreement on a temporary treatment for Britain's dollar ills — without including revaluation of the pound as one of the points.

The pound's value now is $4.03. Its devaluation, in foreign trade, would amount to lowering the price of British goods.

Many American officials have forecast privately that Britain must finally adopt that course, which so far she has shunned. But officials at least, the finance and foreign ministers of the three nations did not raise the issue in the week-long talks.

Instead, the United States and Canada agreed on these lines of immediate relief:

1. More choice for Britain in deciding where to spend Marshall plan dollars. 2. Easier customs entry for British goods. 3. Larger purchases of British tin and rubber. 4. Agreement that Britain may have to discriminate against U. S. and Canadian goods to conserve dollars, subject to congress will.

As longer-range measures, these other points met agreement: speeding of overseas investment; a U. S. promise to seek further tariff cuts; a study of burdensome British war debts; an attempt to improve British earnings from oil, the same for shipping; and finally, a continuing, three-power review of Britain's economic ills.

Alleged Check Artist Faces Federal Charge

Little Rock, Sept. 13 — (P) — A former convict alleged to have passed a large quantity of whiskey with a bogus $25,000 check will be tried in Oklahoma on a federal charge of transporting property — the whiskey — interstate.

The FBI said here last night James Edward Schockley, 42, of Porter, Okla., would be transferred from the Fayetteville, Ark., jail to Fort Smith and then to Ponca City, Okla., where the federal complaint was filed.

Schockley was arrested near Siloam Springs, Ark., yesterday and was arraigned before a U. S. commissioner at Fayetteville. He was ordered held in lieu of $20,000 bond.

FBI Agent Edwin J. Foltz said Schockley forged a check as C. E. Robertson in paying for two truckloads of whiskey at Shreveport, La., Aug. 1. He said the whiskey has not been found.

The FBI agent reported Schockley had served prison sentences for burglary, car theft and attempted murder in Oklahoma and a federal sentence for interstate transportation of a stolen automobile.

Officers Check on Prisoner's Suicide Try

Little Rock, Sept. 13 — (P) — Detectives are checking the story of an Akron, O., youth whose troubles led to an attempt at suicide in the Little Rock city jail yesterday.

The prisoner, Cecil Smith, 20 (Rt. 2), who was arrested along with a 16-year-old girl, identified as Dolores Saraceno, also of Akron, and charged with contributory delinquency, slashed his wrist with a razor blade.

Officers provided first aid in time to save his life.

Detectives L. W. Biggs and R. E. Brianna said Smith told them he was married and the father of two children but that he had fallen in love with Dolores and had run away with her last Thursday.

Smith was quoted as saying Dolores also was married and the mother of a daughter.

The girl was turned over to juvenile authorities.

After his wrist wound had been doctored, Smith told police he would try to take his own life again "if I get a good chance."
